Canadian libraries and schools need access to a high quality, free children's and young adult reviewing journal

The CM: Canadian Review of Materials Association is dedicated to the advancement of education by providing reviews of Canadian authored, illustrated or published books and other materials to assist schools and libraries in selecting Canadian children's and young adult material for classrooms and libraries.

The CM Association operates and publishes CM: Canadian Review of Materials, a free, open access, online journal that appears weekly from September through June.

Your tax receiptable donation to the CM Association will assist in meeting the journal's annual operating costs, including the postage and packaging of review materials mailed to reviewers across Canada. [Note that all those connected with CM: Canadian Review of Materials are volunteers.] Your financial assistance will help to ensure that this educational resource continues to be viable.
